

How Does Your Story End?

Choose a story starter from the list below.

When my Dad came from his trip to the island of Komodo, he brought me a large, red-spotted egg that he bought from a street vendor. It was smooth except for a few rough spots around one end. As I was carrying it to my room...

It was amazing. The largest dragon was in the lead and the other two were following closely. I watched them glide through the pale blue sky and wished that I could fly like they did. But the walls of the castle...

A long time ago, when knights had to prove their valor by capturing a dragon, there lived a beast so great and fierce that not even the sharpest sword could pierce his scales. Only one knight was brave enough to...

Write the story starter you like best in the space below.

Now, on the computer or on another piece of paper, write your dragon story.

Draw a picture of your story.

